

Music Minister Council Report
Tim Beasley
July 2015

1. My recovery is going well. I'm beginning the third week of cardiac rehabilitation at Mountain View Hospital. I'm glad to be back to work.

2. Other than worship preparation, my time is also being spent on getting ready for the new music season, which begins in September. Due to some requests, I'll be adding a beginning handbell choir that will include music lessons.

3. Zach Nance is helping me with two projects this summer.
 1. Cleaning and reorganizing the music room storage closet.
 2. Upgrading our sanctuary sound system with a new P.A. amplifier, equipment rack, and cabling.

4. I'm looking into doing a "mini music camp" in August. This would be a two-day camp with a presentation in worship. I've heard about interest from some young people. I certainly don't have the stamina to do a full music camp yet. But, this would be manageable and worthwhile.

5. Thanks for the prayers!
